Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed April 2, 2008 have been fully considered but are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments will be addressed in sequential order as they were set forth in the "Remarks" section on the above date. Applicant argues concerning claim 1, that Walker does not teach determining a fee for each game. The Examiner respectfully points to paragraph 113 of Walker, "an entry fee may be paid at various different times. Examples of when an entry fee may be paid include: at the start of a video game, after a game is finished, during a game (e.g., a player may be prompted to insert payment in order to continue an ongoing game)".

Regarding claim 1, transferring a portion of the revenue collected by the network provider to the game provider based upon playing each game, Walker, as shown above, collects entry fees for each game. Walker also shows a distributed electronic tournament system (paragraph 25, network). In a gaming system where the game provider and network provider are separate entities, it is inherent that the network provider compensates the game provider in some way. As shown below, revenue sharing schemes are prevalent since this provides a royalty payment to the game provider based on game usage and/or popularity.

The accounting function provides an accounting capability to the game provider for any games that the game provider has "on participation" (i.e., the game provider shares in the revenue generated by a game terminal placed in a customer network) or was sold to a customer outright. The accounting capability provided by the AAA server 492 enables the game provider to account for and collect the revenues generated by the gaming terminal (Gentles, US Patent Application 20040266533, paragraph 211).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
